

“Air Quality and YOU”

A FREE Workshop for Educators of Grades 3-12

Learn how to breathe new life into your lesson plans when you attend this fascinating workshop aimed at familiarizing teachers with the science of air quality. Learn from air quality experts about the properties of air, air pollutants and their sources, how air pollution is monitored, forecasted, and reported, the health effects of air pollution, and how each of us can be part of the “pollution solution.” Workshop will include a combination of fun and educational hands-on activities, presentation materials and videos. The workshop will also provide a plethora of educational resources and standards-based lessons to share with your grade 3-12 students!

Each participant will take home their very own Parts Per Million jar to use with activities provided during the two-hour workshop!
